The time has come! The Rolling Saferspace is super equipped Arriving in Greece and starts the Second practical week. At refugee shelters, we came into contact with other NGOs and, more importantly, the residents. The crew spoke diligently to people, distributed flyers and business cards and exchanged views with many women who told about their needs.

Already on the first day, the coffee and tea offer was actively perceived. It was even Danced and laughed a lot. In the following days, interest in the medical offer in particular increased, so that a first workshop on menstruation and contraception met with great popularity.

All in all, therefore a full first success for ROSA, which would not have been possible without all the multifaceted support that has reached us and is reaching us. At this point therefore again a huge Thank you to all the supporters!

We are now with one Midwife Collective from Athens networks and to exchange ideas with other medical projects, from which we have received consistently positive feedback so far. In the next few days, we will work together with other actors (partly also use the truck together) and access other accommodation.

Since the winter is unexpectedly back in Greece, we now procure a large tent, so that despite bad weather workshops can take place. We need to find out What the inhabitants desire andddd with which their experiences and expertise they can and want to shape/create the Saferspace. Then it will quickly become apparent what can be implemented immediately and for which something still needs to be done / created.

To: Building a long-term project and meaningful, sustainable support for women on the move organise, We still need your help!
